Mr Rakha — Avatar Pack

Oct 7, 2026 · @Nosseir

Three primary avatars: the ambitious A* student who watches, the anxious exam-year parent who pays, and the Year 9 family choosing subjects. Everything Mr Rakha posts targets one of them.

Clusters scored

The A* chaser and the anxious parent tie on top (30/35). The subject chooser (28) comes third because it brings families in two years before exams.

Scores run 1–5. Pain = how much it hurts · Pay = ability to pay · Reach = organic reach on IG, FB and TikTok · Size · Fit = how well his class solves it · Pull = would they watch and share · LTV = years and referrals.

Cluster	Pain	Pay	Reach	Size	Fit	Pull	LTV	Total	Role
The A* chaser (student, Y10–11)	4	3	5	4	5	5	4	30	Primary
The results-anxious parent	5	5	4	4	5	3	4	30	Primary
The subject chooser (Y9 family)	3	4	4	4	4	4	5	28	Primary
The "business is just memorising" student	4	3	4	5	4	4	3	27	Secondary
The future entrepreneur teen	2	3	5	4	3	5	3	25	Reach only
The credential-checking father	3	5	3	4	4	3	3	25	Served by parent content
The A-level next-stepper	3	4	3	3	3	3	4	23	Later, if he teaches A-level
The returning Gulf or expat family	4	5	2	2	4	2	4	23	Later
The retaker after a bad result	5	4	3	2	4	2	2	22	Secondary, Jan and Aug only
The private candidate (British Council)	4	4	2	2	4	2	3	21	Not now

The cut: we keep the user (A* chaser), the payer (parent) and the earliest entry point (subject chooser). The others are reached through the same content without needing their own track. Scores are estimates from the market brief and competitor scan. No customer data exists yet.

Avatar 1: The A* chaser

She watches the content, follows the account, and tells her parents which teacher she wants.

Snapshot	15–16, Year 10–11 at an international or British school in New Cairo, Sheikh Zayed or Maadi. Takes Business and/or Economics. Family pays 80–180K EGP a year in school fees.
A day	School until 3, then a tutor or a center most evenings. Scrolls TikTok and Reels between sessions. Studies with friends on Discord or WhatsApp before exams.
Pains, in her words	"I know the answer but I still lose marks." "Business is just memorising definitions." "I don't get what 'evaluate' actually wants."
Desires, in her words	"I want a 9, not a 7." "I want it to actually make sense." "I want a teacher who doesn't make me feel stupid."
Objections and answers	"Another boring tutor" → class clips show the energy. "My friends go to someone else" → shareable Briefs pull her friends in too.
Triggers	The start of Year 10, a weak mock, a friend's recommendation, a bad 14 Jan or August result
Attention	TikTok, Instagram Reels, Save My Exams, study-tok, business and money creators
Language	English with Egyptian Arabic mixed in, the way IGCSE students actually talk. Never a lecture tone, never "dear students".
Message angle	Business stops being memorising the moment you see it in real life.

Hooks	"You've paid this tax every time you ordered food." · "This one word costs you 4 marks." · "Why does the same Pepsi cost more at the cinema?" · "Write this, not that, in Paper 2." · "Your 'evaluate' answer is missing one sentence."
Shares, saves, comments	Briefs she can send to a friend; mark-loss carousels she saves before exams
Offer that fits	A trial class, or a seat in his group, through WhatsApp
Evidence vs assumptions	Evidence: tutoring in exam years is common at Cairo international schools (Tutopiya). Assumptions: platform habits and pains, to be confirmed by polling his current students on the shoot day.

Avatar 2: The results-anxious parent

She pays, and she buys trust: proof, calm and a teacher who clearly knows the new exam.

Snapshot	Mother, 40–50, often a working professional, one or two children in IGCSE. Cairo or Giza. Already pays 80–180K EGP a year in school fees, so it's not price-first.
A day	Work, school pick-up, WhatsApp school groups at night. Checks Facebook and Instagram in the evening. Asks other mothers "who's good for Business?"
Pains, in her words	"He studies but the grade doesn't move." "I don't understand this system, so I can't help him." "I've paid for tutors before and nothing changed."
Desires, in her words	"A teacher I can trust, so I can stop worrying." "To know where he really stands." "Results, not promises."
Objections and answers	"Is he really good?" → 10+ years, verified results, testimonials. "Too expensive?" → show what one class includes. "Can my child get a seat?" → a waitlist and a clear intake date.

Triggers	A weak mock (Jan–Feb), 14 Jan and August results, the start of Year 10, another mother's recommendation
Attention	Facebook pages and parent groups, Instagram, WhatsApp. Watches with sound off at night.
Language	Clear English captions. Egyptian Arabic is fine on camera. Calm, respectful, never salesy, never "limited seats!!".
Message angle	Your child doesn't need more hours; they need someone who shows them where the marks are.
Hooks	"The Business exam changes in 2027. Here's what that means for your child." · "Why good students still get a 6." · "What a 9 answer looks like, next to a 6." · "Three questions to ask any IGCSE tutor." · "What 10 years of marking taught me about the mark scheme."
Shares, saves, comments	The 0264 explainer, "questions to ask a tutor", and testimonials. Forwards them to the school WhatsApp group.
Offer that fits	A short call or WhatsApp chat, a placement or trial class, a waitlist for the next intake
Evidence vs assumptions	Evidence: parents choose on teacher quality, results and personal attention (Tutopiya); fee range (s3rk). Assumptions: a mother as the main decision-maker, and her habits. Confirm with Mr Rakha's current parents.

Avatar 3: The subject chooser

A Year 9 student and their parent deciding whether to take Business, Economics or both. Win them now and they stay two years.

Snapshot	13–14 plus a parent, at an IGCSE school, picking options for Year 10

Pains, in their words	"What's the difference between Business and Economics?" "Which one helps for university?" "Is it hard?"
Desires	To pick the right subjects with confidence, and to have a teacher already in mind
Objections and answers	"Too early to look for a tutor" → no hard sell; give the clearest answer online and become the name they remember
Triggers	Options season, Feb–Apr (estimate); the start of the year (Aug–Sep)
Message angle	Pick the subject that matches how you think, and here's how to tell.
Hooks	"Business or Economics? One question decides it." · "What you'll actually study in IGCSE Business." · "Economics in 30 seconds: is it for you?"
Offer that fits	A free "which subject" guide (carousel or PDF) by WhatsApp, then a Year 10 intake waitlist

Secondary avatars:

- The "business is just memorising" student. Reached by the same Briefs, and the hook is that it isn't memorising.
- The retaker. Only around 14 Jan and August results: "What to do after a 5" content.

Handoff: Briefs go to Avatar 1. 0264 explainers, results and testimonials go to Avatar 2. "Which subject" content runs Feb–Apr for Avatar 3. Revisit this pack in January 2027, after the first comment and DM data.

Avatar pool

These are the 30 raw avatars the clusters above were built from.

#	Avatar	Who	Trigger	Channel	Awareness
1	Straight-A perfectionist	Y11 girl, international school	Predicted 7, wants 9	TikTok, IG	Solution-aware
2	Mark-loser	Y11, knows content, low marks	Mock feedback	TikTok	Problem-aware
3	Command-word confused	Y10	First "evaluate" question	IG Reels	Problem-aware

#	Avatar	Who	Trigger	Channel	Awareness
4	Friend-follower	Y10 boy	Friends join a teacher	TikTok, WhatsApp	Unaware
5	Last-minute crammer	Y11, May	Two weeks to the exam	TikTok	Most aware
6	Bored memoriser	Y10, finds Business dull	Weak quiz	TikTok	Unaware
7	Future founder	15, sells online on the side	Business news	TikTok, IG	Unaware
8	Money-curious teen	14–16, follows finance creators	Pound or gold news	TikTok	Unaware
9	Economics-only student	Y10, Economics without Business	Diagram confusion	IG	Problem-aware
10	Double-subject student	Business and Economics	Workload	IG	Solution-aware
11	Anxious mother, exam year	45, child in Y11	Mock results	FB, WhatsApp	Problem-aware
12	Burned-by-tutors mother	Paid two tutors, no change	Result stuck at 6	FB groups	Solution-aware
13	Lost-in-the-system parent	National-system graduate	Doesn't understand IGCSE	FB	Problem-aware
14	Credential-checking father	Business owner, 50	Before paying	IG, LinkedIn	Solution-aware
15	Busy professional parent	Both parents work	Wants it handled	WhatsApp	Most aware
16	New-to-Cairo family	Back from the Gulf	First term	FB groups	Problem-aware
17	Sibling-referral parent	Older child had Mr Rakha	Younger in Y10	WhatsApp	Most aware
18	Y9 subject chooser	14 + parent	Options form	IG, FB	Unaware
19	Pre-uni planner parent	Wants AUC or GUC business	University plans	FB	Problem-aware
20	Retaker after Oct/Nov	Y11–12	14 Jan results	TikTok, WhatsApp	Most aware
21	Retaker after June	Y12	August results	TikTok	Most aware
22	Private candidate	Homeschool, British Council	Registration	FB	Solution-aware
23	A-level next-stepper	AS student	Starting A-level	IG	Solution-aware
24	Edexcel-to-Cambridge switcher	Changed board	New syllabus	FB	Problem-aware

#	Avatar	Who	Trigger	Channel	Awareness
25	0264 worrier	Y10 2026–27 cohort	Hears about the new syllabus	IG	Problem-aware
26	Online-tutor skeptic parent	Prefers in person	Bad online experience	FB	Solution-aware
27	Price-comparing parent	Mid income	Comparing platforms	FB	Solution-aware
28	Quiet student	Won't ask questions in class	Falling behind	IG	Problem-aware
29	Competitive top-set boy	Y11, wants top of year	Ranking	TikTok	Solution-aware
30	School teacher-referral parent	School recommends a tutor	Teacher's advice	WhatsApp	Most aware