Mr Rakha — Brand Book & Profile Kit

Oct 7, 2026 · @Nosseir

Mr Rakha is "the Analyst": a calm, precise teacher who reads the real world through the syllabus, presented with an editorial look like the Financial Times or The Economist. He never sells; the class sells itself.

Personality

Recommended: A, "the Analyst", with a little of C. It fits your brief (classy, top level, show don't tell), the Financial Times look, and a teacher who is hesitant on camera, because the board and the charts do the talking.

	A. The Analyst (recommended)	B. The Headmaster	C. The Boardroom Mentor
Archetype	Sage / economist	Ruler / institution	Mentor / coach
3 words	Composed · precise · generous	Rigorous · traditional · exacting	Ambitious · practical · encouraging
We are / are not	Calm, not dull · expert, not arrogant · premium, not flashy	Strict, not warm · proven, not modern	Motivating, not hype · real-world, not exam-only
Sample caption	"Every time a delivery app adds a 'service fee', it's testing one thing: how much you'll pay before you stop ordering. In your syllabus that's price elasticity of demand. Here's how it's examined."	"Ten years of mark schemes. One rule: answer the question that was asked."	"Every company you love started with a business plan. Here's how to write the one Paper 2 wants."
Sample 3-line script	1. (Board) "Why does a Pepsi cost more at the cinema?" 2. "Because inside, there's no competitor." 3. "That's monopoly power, and it's 6 marks in Paper 1."	1. "Most students lose marks here." 2. "Not because they don't know." 3. "Because they don't read the command word."	1. "Think like a CEO for 30 seconds." 2. "Your costs rise 20%. What do you cut?" 3. "That's the question Paper 2 asks you."

	A. The Analyst (recommended)	B. The Headmaster	C. The Boardroom Mentor
Risk	Can feel cold, so the class clips must carry the warmth	Looks like every "strict tutor" page; turns students off	Can slip into motivational clichés

The C part we borrow: occasional "think like a CEO" questions to the student, for warmth and interaction.

Voice guide

Speak like a respected economist explaining something to a bright 15-year-old: short sentences, one idea, one example, then the exam link.

Context	Tone	Example
Real-world Brief	Curious, precise	"Why does gold sell out when the pound falls? Two words: store of value."
Exam mastery	Calm, direct, specific	"'Explain' wants a link. 'Analyse' wants a chain. 'Evaluate' wants a decision."
Inside the class	Warm, light humour	"Student says 'inflation is when prices go up'. Me: and then?"
Results and proof	Understated, with credit to the students	"Their work. We just pointed it in the right direction."
Intake and offers	Quiet, factual, no pressure	"The January group opens to waitlist families first. Details on WhatsApp."
Sensitive (bad results, stress)	Reassuring, practical	"A 5 is information, not a verdict. Here's what to do this week."

Language:

- On camera: Egyptian Arabic, mixed with the English terms students use in class. Scripts are written in English first, then adapted with `egyptian-voice` after approval.
- On-screen text and captions: English, which fits IGCSE parents and the editorial look. Arabic-script search keywords go in the Facebook "About" section only.

Use: the mark scheme, command words, real-world, the Brief, application, the case, chain of analysis, "here's how it's examined", "think like a CEO".

Avoid: "limited seats!!", "best teacher in Egypt", "guaranteed A*", "dear students", "hurry", fire and rocket emojis, made-up stats, naming schools without permission, mocking other teachers.

Habits: no emojis on screen; at most one per caption, and only in community posts. Sentence case. Numbers as digits. Address the viewer as "you".

Visual guide

Updated 7 Oct 2026, replacing the salmon direction below: the founder chose the Whisky Lounge palette: Lounge Black #141112 (55%), Bone #F2E8D8 (30%), Cognac #8B4A2B (8%), Gold #C69B3C (4%), Taupe #8A8580 (3%). He also chose the Signet logo: a Cinzel "R" inside a gold double ring, with "MR RAKHA". Fonts are Cormorant Garamond, Inter and IBM Plex Sans Arabic. The tagline is "Business, explained like it matters." All of this was validated with the color-system and logo-system skills; the brand-board PDF is the source of truth.

A warm salmon "newspaper" page, a serif headline, one chart and an oxblood margin note. The aim: you could recognise a post as his with the name covered.

Role	Colour	Hex	Contrast on paper
Paper (background)	Salmon paper	#F7E9DC	—
Body text	Ink	#1B1B1B	14.5:1
Accent, margin notes, key words	Oxblood	#7A1F2B	8.6:1
Charts, second accent, dark slides	Navy	#1F3A5F	9.6:1 (white on navy 11.5:1)
Captions and sources	Warm grey	#6B5E57	5.2:1
Chart up / down only	Green / brick	#2E7D4F / #B03A2E	4.2 / 5.1 (large text and lines only)

Fonts (free, so the design and motion studios can use them): Source Serif 4 for headlines (semibold, tight), Inter for body, labels and sources, and IBM Plex Sans Arabic for any Arabic.

Logo: a wordmark, "RAKHA" in serif small caps, with a thin oxblood rule underneath. Monogram "R" for the profile picture. Small, top-left on covers. Never at the end of a video.

Video look: natural window light, warm grade, in his real classroom. Shallow depth of field on the board, hands, marker and paper. Steady, unhurried cuts (2–3 seconds). Captions in Inter on a paper-colour bar. No dark scenes, no glitch transitions, no trending-sound edits on Briefs.

Cover style: salmon paper, a dateline at the top ("CAIRO · THE BRIEF · No. 01"), a serif headline of 6 words or fewer, one chart or object photo, and an oxblood margin note.

Signatures (recognisable without a logo):

1. "The Brief" dateline and issue number on every real-world post: a series that collects.
2. The oxblood margin note: a handwritten-style correction on student answers (dummy data), the "red pen of a top examiner".
3. The board word: Briefs open on him writing one word on the board ("MONOPOLY"). No need to talk to camera.
4. Sound: the marker squeak on the board plus a soft paper rustle. Calm piano or strings underneath.
5. The closing line: "…and that's how it's examined." A recurring tag he can say in Arabic or English, tested on the shoot day.

Kept separate from Sparq: Sparq uses parchment, a bright blue #0099FF, EB Garamond and marked-paper motion. Mr Rakha uses salmon, oxblood and navy, Source Serif, and charts and real-world objects. No blue on his brand, no Sparq words. When Sparq is introduced later, it appears only as "how my class works", credited.

Founder decision needed: the palette is close to the FT's "pink" by design. If you'd rather keep more distance, switch the paper to warm cream #F6F0E6.

Profile kit

Use one handle everywhere and "Mr Rakha | IGCSE Business" as the searchable name. Bio variant A (clear) is recommended.

Handle options, in order. Availability is not verified, because the social sites are blocked from this session. Check each in the app before creating.

1. `mrrakha` (exact name)
2. `mr.rakha` (the period is acceptable on IG and TikTok)
3. `rakha.business`
4. `mrrakha.econ`

The " / " marks a line break.

Link plan: one link everywhere, `wa.me/<his WhatsApp Business number>?text=Hi%20Mr%20Rakha` (with UTM-style text per platform: "…from Instagram" / "…from TikTok"). Add a link-in-bio page only once there are 3 real destinations (waitlist form, free guide, WhatsApp).

Profile photo: for now, the "R" monogram in oxblood on salmon paper. After the shoot day, a warm, natural headshot at the board, cropped so it still reads at 110 px. Use the same image on all three platforms.

Facebook cover (1640 × 624; keep text in the central 1200 × 400): salmon paper, the headline "Business, read through the real world.", a small "IGCSE & O-level · Business · Economics", and a photo of him at the board on the right.

Highlights, pins and WhatsApp

Everything points to one place: a WhatsApp chat with clear quick replies and a waitlist label.

Instagram highlights (in decision order): Start here · The Brief · Exam room · Results · Parents · Join. Covers: salmon circle, oxblood line icon, no emojis.

Pinned posts (IG and TikTok, 3 each):

Pin	Content	Status
1	"Who I am": a 30s film of him teaching (class clips, board word, one line he says)	Shoot day 1
2	"The 2027 Business exam is changing": a 0264 explainer carousel or reel	Code-made, no shoot
3	Proof: results or a student testimonial	After results and consent are collected

WhatsApp Business pack:
