Physiocure Egypt: Google Maps audit

What a patient sees when they find you on Google, compared with the 5 physio clinics around you

Prepared by Ismail Nosseir · 18 Oct 2026

You vs the clinics near you (Google Maps)

CLINIC	RATING	REVIEWS	ONE-STAR SHARE	LINKED ON GOOGLE
Physiocure Egypt	4.6	217	9% (19)	Nothing
Dutch Physiotherapy	4.8	275	2% (6)	Website, Instagram, TikTok
Painless Physiotherapy	4.8	220	4% (8)	Facebook
Infinity Physio Clinic	4.8	171	4% (7)	Nothing
Stride Clinic (Zahraa El Maadi)	5.0	128	0%	Nothing
Physio Egypt (Maadi)	4.9	73	1% (1)	Website, Instagram

You're third for patient volume, but you have the lowest rating and the highest share of one-star reviews of the six. That's what people compare when they choose.

4 fixes, in order

1. Your address shows GPS coordinates, not a street address.
   The listing reads "29.960535, 31.290359 Zahraa Al Maadi...". A patient can't tell a driver where to go. Fix: enter the street, building and a landmark. About 10 minutes.
2. Nothing is linked: no WhatsApp, Instagram, Facebook or website.
   Someone who finds you has nowhere to see your treatments or book. Fix: add a WhatsApp booking link and your social pages now; a simple one-page site with treatments and booking later.
3. 19 one-star reviews pull your rating down to 4.6.
   Fix: a calm, professional reply under each one (templates ready), and a QR review card at reception so satisfied patients leave a review. Roughly 70 new five-star reviews would lift you to about 4.7.
4. Show what you treat.
   Add your services on Google (back pain, sports injuries, post-surgery rehab and so on) and photos of the clinic and team. No patient photos without written consent.

Next step: I can set up fixes 1, 2 and 4 and the review card this week. A 10-minute call or visit is enough to walk through it.
